FEDERAL HEAT PUMP REBATE: GENERAL INFORMATION

GREENFOOT ENERGY SOLUTIONS

PLEASE READ FIRST

- Greenfoot does not decide, confirm or guarantee eligibility, approval, the rebate amount or when it is paid.
- You are responsible for confirming all program details and your own eligibility directly with the Government of Canada.
- Program rules are still being finalized and may change at any time.
- Your price does not depend on any rebate. Payment for all installations is due in full on the day of completion.

VERIFY BEFORE YOU DECIDE

1. Program details, eligibility rules, income table and sign up for updates
2. Questions about rebate eligibility: contact the Government of Canada.
3. Questions about your heat pump system: contact your Home Comfort Advisor.

WHAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS PUBLISHED

Rebates up to $2,000, or up to $10,000 for households at or below the median income for their province and household size. The amount depends on total household income (every working person in the home) and the cost of the equipment installed, and cannot exceed the total cost of installation.

- Heat pumps installed on or after November 1, 2026 may qualify.
- Homeowners apply themselves, online, starting in early 2027. The government pays any rebate to the homeowner.
- The program supports heat pump systems that can heat the entire home.
- The heat pump must be on the federal eligible product list, identified by its AHRI number.
- The applicant must own the home. It does not need to be their primary residence.
- One rebate per household. Homes that have already received federal funding for a heat pump are not eligible.
- Income is checked with the Canada Revenue Agency when you apply.
- Receipts must be submitted within 6 months.
- Environment and Climate Change Canada has advised that ductless systems must include at least two new indoor heads, and that the indoor and outdoor units must be listed together under one AHRI number.

WHAT TO KEEP

1. Your final invoice from Greenfoot and your proof of payment.
2. Before you apply, check that your documents meet the program's receipt requirements at the time you apply.
